Product Discontinuation Notice

Cellient MPL200 450MHz Modem "-La"

Dear Valued Customer,

We value your commitment and trust you placed into our products. As part of our product life-cycle we strive to inform you as early as possible about changes. Sadly, due to the end of business operations of a supplier of a critical component we are no longer able to produce a select range of product variants. The supplier did not give notice, about this change and in fact has ceased operation not only for this component, but in general. There are none of these specialized components left in the market and there is no suitable replacement available.

With our wide range of products, we hope to be able to deliver an alternative solution where possible, so please check our website for more information or contact your NetModule sales representative for specific recommendations.
